Driver tells kidnap story

DINGMANS FERRY—Residents and police in the northeastern section of Pike County remained on the alert for a kidnaper who is armed with six hand grenades, a six-inch long black pistol and carrying a suitcase filled with $30,000 in $100 bills.

State police at Milford and Hainesville, N.J. said Thursday they are not certain whether the kidnaper had crossed the Delaware River.

Reports late Wednesday night indicated that police expected the kidnaper to cross the Delaware River at either the private Dingmans Ferry toll bridge or the bridge at Montague.

A John Doe warrant charging the unidentified man with kidnapping has been issued by the Springfield, N.J. police.

The man is described as being a Cuban or Puerto Rican 30 years of age. He has a beard, mustache, wears tinted glasses and was last wearing a bluish-gray shirt and trousers.

The man, considered to be dangerous, is charged with kidnapping Edmond J. Hillman, 50, of Scotch Plains, N.J.

Hillman, a truck driver for Builders Fair Inc. of Springfield, manufacturers of kitchens for new homes, was at Swings Diner on Route 22 in Springfield about 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Hainesville State Police said that Hillman went to his truck after having breakfast. The kidnaper rose from behind the front seat and pointed a pistol at Hillman as he entered the cab.

Hillman, State Police described, was forced to drive to Bevan, N.J. At Bevan, the driver was robbed of $60 and a Benrus wrist watch at gunpoint.

The kidnaper had opened his suitcase and showed Hillman the six hand grenades and a bundle of $100 bills which the victim was told totaled $30,000.

State Police have no information on a robbery where that amount was taken.

Hillman was ordered out of the truck near the Walpack-Bevans Road in Walpack Township.

Area man to file $5 million suit against New York county

Reservists granted war stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice William O. Douglas granted a last-minute reprieve from Vietnam to 113 soldiers Thursday so the Supreme Court can rule on their court challenge to President Johnson's callup of reservists.

The 113 men, all from the Cleveland area, were ticketed for shipment to Vietnam Friday.

Their request for a delay until their challenge is decided was turned down last week by Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Hugo L. Black.

Douglas, vacationing in Goose Prairie, Wash., in a house without a telephone, decided the soldiers had posed substantial questions about the law and found a telephone in a nearby town to call the court and order the Army not to send them to Vietnam.

The reprieve is temporary—until the court begins its new term Oct. 7 and all nine justices can consider this initial attack on the 1966 act of Congress that gave Johnson authority to call up reservists without a declaration of war or national emergency.

Should the court decide in the week of Oct. 7 to examine the case further, the stay would be extended for an indefinite period pending a final decision. If it decides against further examination, the stay would expire immediately after such a ruling.

The 113 soldiers were called up from the reserve last May as part of the 1002nd Supply and Services Co. at Ft. Meade, Md. More than 38,000 reservists were put on active duty in Vietnam buildings.

The high court has beaten back efforts to challenge the legality of U.S. participation in the war. Douglas and Justice Potter Stewart have stood apart, calling on their colleagues to come to grips with such questions.

The reservists' attorney, Nathan R. Zahn of Los Angeles, argues that the law is an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to the President by Congress.

Family emerges from woods

ATHENS, Pa. (AP) — A 40-year-old father and his three children, reported missing since Monday in a heavily-wooded area 12 miles west of here, walked into the home of the man's sister at Wellsburg, N.Y.

Leland Breese apparently fled into the woods last Friday after a minor accident. He was not reported missing until Monday when Police Chief William Jones of South Creek Township went to Breese's Western Bradford County home to arrest him on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a license.

Peaceful demonstrations permitted

Columbia OKs lenient rules

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia University faculty adopted temporary rules Thursday to permit peaceful campus demonstrations, but forbid force, violence, loud noises, blocking doorways or mass invasions of offices.

The rules were aimed at preventing a repetition of last spring's student uprisings, when about 700 persons were arrested, and scores disciplined. Students charged the police with brutality in quelling the disorders, but the police denied it.

The new rules say demonstrators must be notified before city police are called. The faculty recommended that its executive committee be consulted.

A university spokesman said the trustees had agreed to let the faculty lay down the rules. The faculty also recommended broader clemency—but not complete amnesty—for those arrested or disciplined last spring. This recommendation apparently was not accepted in advance by the trustees.

About 30 students, including Mark Rudd, head of the campus Students for a Democratic Society, still are suspended because of the spring disorders. A number still face criminal charges.

While the faculty met in closed session, about 150 students and others demonstrated outside and scuffled with campus police who barred them from the meeting.

City police stood by, but took no part.

Asked if the demonstrators had violated the new rules, Prof. Michael I. Sovern said he thought they had. He could not say what action would be taken, if any.

Sovern, chairman of the faculty's executive committee, told a news conference the rules were effective immediately. Registration for the fall term starts Sept. 26.

"Those who insist on disruptive behavior will not find these rules to their liking, but those interested in peaceful protest will," said Sovern.

Sovern said permanent rules will be adopted by a disciplinary committee which the faculty recommended by composed of faculty, students and administrators on a 4-4-2 ratio.

Students accused of infractions would be hailed to hearings before faculty-student tribunals, whose decisions would be appealable to the disciplinary committee.

The faculty suggested penalties ranging from censure to expulsion.

The faculty took no action on proposals for creation of a "university senate" and a "student assembly" to run the school, subject to veto by the Board of Trustees.

Pueblo skipper quoted saying his ship violated Red waters

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea quoted the skipper of the USS Pueblo as saying Thursday his mission before the ship's seizure last January was to spy on the North Korean navy and to "determine the electromagnetic activities of the Korean People's Army including all radar signals intercepted."

A broadcast dispatch of the official Korean Central News Agency said Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher told foreign newsmen at a news conference in North Korea that his job also was to test the reaction of North Korea "to the presence of an intelligence collection ship, such as ours, which was operating within their coastal waters."

The U.S. government has insisted that the Pueblo was outside North Korean territorial waters when she was seized by Communist naval vessels Jan.

23 and her 82-man crew taken prisoner.

Washington has said it is willing to let a neutral body determine the position of the ship at the time. It has rejected North Korea's demands for an admission of guilt and an official apology in order to gain the release of the ship and her crew.

Commenting on the remarks attributed to Bucher, the State Department in Washington said the Pueblo was under specific instructions to stay at least 13 miles off the North Korean coast.

"We continue to have no reason to believe that the captain of the Pueblo violated the 12-mile instructions in his sailing order."

North Korea claims a 12-mile limit. The United States generally recognizes a three-mile limit.

Rainmaking irks farmers

HARRISBURG (AP) — Farmers are "on the verge of revolt" against illegal rainmaking, a member of a four-state citizens' organization opposing such activities said Thursday.

"I am convinced that illegal seeding is going on and the damage is intolerable," said W. L. Kinter, of Chambersburg, secretary of the Tri-State Natural Weather Association.

The tri-state association is composed of citizens from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, according to Paul Hoke, Rt. 1 St. Thomas and chairman of the group.

"The economic disaster (of cloud seeding) is easy to prove," Hoke said. "Farmers have lost millions and have left the farms by the hundreds."

House passes $72 billion defense bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A record $72.2-billion defense appropriation bill cleared the House by overwhelming vote Thursday after numerous efforts to change it were snuffed under.

A roll-call vote of 334 to 7 sent the measure to the Senate after hawk failed to increase it, doves failed to cut it, and others lost fights to restrict use of the money.

Claims he was jailed illegally

GARDEN CITY, L.I. — A 61-year-old Honesdale man, who claims he was illegally held in three New York mental institutions for 28 years, this week filed an intent to sue Nassau County for $5 million.

John Dorak, through his attorney Harry P. Heller of New York City, served Nassau County's chief trial attorney Wednesday with papers for the intent to sue.

The tall, lean Dorak, who was released earlier this year and is now living with his son, Patrick Dorak of Star Route Honesdale, alleges false arrest, malicious prosecution, false imprisonment and illegal confinement.

Heller said he plans to file an additional $1 million suit against Nassau County this week for illegally transferring Dorak between institutions, malpractice and mistreatment.

Specifically, Dorak is asking $4 million for himself and $1 million for his wife, Marie, who died in 1965. The suit lists the $1 million for his wife's estate for loss of what was termed consortium.

The suit is the largest ever filed against Nassau County. The County has 30 days to answer the charges. After that time, Heller can officially file the suit.

In 1939, Nassau County Judge Courtland Johnson declared Dorak had the mentality of an eight-year-old and ordered him sent to state institutions for the mentally defective for an indeterminate time.

Dorak in 1939 appeared in court on charges of third degree arson for allegedly setting fire to two summer cottages owned by his mother.

In the lawsuit, Dorak claims that he pleaded guilty to the arson charge because detectives at the time of his arrest threatened to arrest his then pregnant wife on larceny charges.

A hearing is scheduled Tuesday in Nassau County Court on the legality of the confession obtained from Dorak which was used to convict him on the arson charge.

Neither Dorak nor his attorney could be reached by telephone Thursday night.

Land-based nuclear weapons

Russia will match U.S. power

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union will match the United States in land-based nuclear weapons by the end of the year, and some of them will pack a bigger bang, the authoritative British Institute for Strategic Studies said today.

America is still far ahead in naval ballistic missiles, the institute said in its annual assessment of world military might, but a new class of Soviet nuclear-powered submarine, similar to the American Polaris and capable of carrying 16 missiles for submerged firing, is now coming into service.

The 10th annual report examined armed strength as it existed at the end of July and made only a passing reference to the Warsaw Pact occupation of Czechoslovakia.

It said the Russians are giving "increased attention" to the "training and employment of marine and airborne forces, and the latter were used in the Aug. 20-21 invasion of Czechoslovakia."

Past institute reports show the extent of the Soviet buildup. In 1965 the United States had four times as many ICBMs as the Russians, but by 1967 it only had 2 1/2 times as many.

This year's comparative table showed:

Land-based ICBMs — U.S. 1,054; U.S.S.R. 900 to 1,000.
Fleet Ballistic Missiles — U.S. 656; U.S.S.R. 125.

Intermediate and Medium-Range Ballistic Missiles — U.S. none; U.S.S.R. 750.

Long-Range Heavy Bombers — U.S. 500; U.S.S.R. 150.
Medium Bombers — U.S. 40; U.S.S.R. 1,050.

Many Soviet missiles pack a nuclear punch in the 10, 20 and 30-megaton range, the report said. Only the American Minuteman I and II and the Titan have explosive power over one megaton. A megaton is equal to 1 million tons of TNT explosive force.

The report had this to say of Communist and Western ground forces in Europe:

"Although the Warsaw Pact forces have about twice as many brigades as NATO and more than twice the number of tanks, yet in terms of men NATO is much nearer to reaching parity. NATO also has a great superiority in antitank defenses."

The report noted:

"China is also believed to be developing intercontinental ballistic missiles at the same time as medium-range missiles. Her progress in this field over the past year has not measured up to some of the Western forecasts."

Commenting on Vietnam, the institute said: "In Vietnam, the total number of allied troops, including the South Vietnam paramilitary forces, is now about five times that of the Communist regular and irregular forces." It said the number of North Vietnamese regular troops has increased to roughly one-third of all Communist forces in the South.

Conductor Nixon handles crowds

New York (AP) The audience is like a giant pipe organ and the skilled musician at the console, Richard M. Nixon, pulls out a stop.

"I believe that some of our courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court, have gone too far in weakening the peace forces as against the criminal forces in this country," he says.

The "instrument" responds with a thunder clap of applause.

Nixon's fingers deftly move to another section of the keyboard.

"When a fourth-rate military power like North Korea can hijack an American Naval vessel on the high seas," he says, "it's time for new leadership in Washington."

The clapping, mingled with derisive laughter, is sweet music in his ears.

Now he reaches for another basso profundo note.

"In times like these the working American, the average American, is also the forgotten American," he says. "He is the nonshouter, the nondemonstrator. But though he remains silent, this is an angry American with legitimate grievances against his government. It will be among our purposes in this campaign to articulate that anger and present the case for the forgotten American."

Again he gets the effect he sought, a deep roar of approval. Nixon's presidential campaign, in a word, has been carefully orchestrated so far.

In months of campaigning in the primary elections and now in his second week of stumping as the Republican candidate, Nixon has covered a wide spectrum of domestic and foreign issues.

He has not yet gone deeply into any of them.

In his standard speech, he sprays his audiences with statements on crime, law and order, civil rights, government spending, welfare, the war on poverty, Vietnam, the Middle East, relations with the Soviet Union, American prestige and other problems.

He says he has made "definitive statements" on 167 major issues.

"We're definitely not going to run what somebody has referred to as a 'Dewey-type' campaign," Nixon said recently. "We're taking nothing for granted."

The reference was to the presidential election of 1948. The Republican candidate, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, appeared to be so far ahead of President Harry S. Truman that his advisers felt it unnecessary for him to take definitive positions on controversial subjects.

Truman won the election.

Nixon has a number of factors working in his favor.

He succeeded in a prime objective—to win the nomination without splitting the GOP. His erstwhile rivals, Gens. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California, introduced him when he spoke in their states. Sens. Thurston Morton of Kentucky and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, who supported Rockefeller's candidacy, traveled with Nixon in his first campaign swing.

Nixon's staff has been honed to fine edge of efficiency. It strongly resembles the team of smooth-working professionals that backed up John F. Kennedy in the 1960 campaign.

Finally, and supremely important, Nixon's position today is the reverse of his role in 1960. Then, as vice president, he was obliged to defend a Republican administration. Today, he can attack. His opponent, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, has to defend.

Thus, Nixon can quote Humphrey as saying, "Let us continue," to which he adds, "I say we just can't stand four more years of what we've had."

Third party candidate George C. Wallace has said "there isn't a dime's worth of difference" between Nixon and Humphrey. Nixon already has made one speech in which he pointed to six major areas of difference he claims he has with the vice president. He says he will sharpen the differences as he develops his campaign.

Humphrey focus on big states

SEA GIRT, N.J. (AP) — After just four days on the road, Hubert H. Humphrey's basic campaign strategy is coming into focus: Concentrate on the big states, set what aides term "an unapologetic liberal line" and try to draw Richard M. Nixon into debate.

Humphrey's aides, examining his first cross-country swing, profess to be unconcerned about such things as lackluster crowds, the ever-present anti-war demonstrators, and an inability to round up some key Democratic leaders in many places.

They even admit he is behind now and may be for another month.

The important thing, they told a reporter, is that Humphrey has set his basic line and issued "a series of sharp challenges to Nixon," particularly on the nuclear nonproliferation treaty and the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice.

Humphrey is trying to line up the traditionally Democratic supporters in labor and minority groups, plus the suburban vote which he feels will be decisive in the election. He is counting on antagonism to Nixon to bring most antiwar dissidents back into the fold.

He is hoping in this connection that Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, the chief symbol of antiwar sentiment, will throw his support eventually to Humphrey. McCarthy has said he could not support Nixon, but will not take a definite stand for another two or three weeks.

"The important thing is the difference between Humphrey and Nixon," one top Humphrey aide said, adding that "we are going to fight it out on the basic issues."

On law and order, Humphrey is taking a somewhat milder line than Nixon or George C. Wallace.

Humphrey's camp is counting on the belief that polls that show an overwhelming majority in favor of a tough line on the law and order issue will not be borne out by the votes come November.

"If you read the polls," the aide said, "Nixon's got it. When you're behind, you have to take risks. If we lose, we'll go down with the right colors flying."

Humphrey's efforts to tag Nixon as "a wiggler and a wobbler" on the nuclear treaty and Fortas are keys to the campaign. "We hope to be able to draw Nixon out," especially if there are debates between the candidates, the aide added.

DPI chief backs limited strike

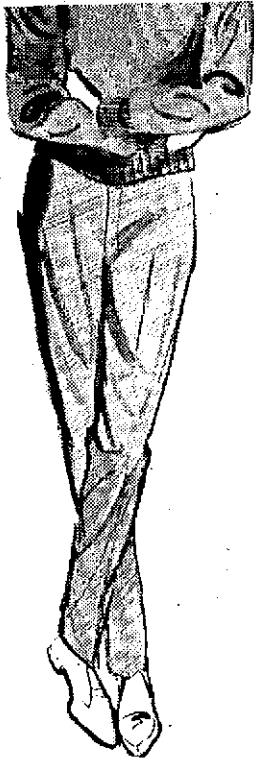

HARRISBURG AP — Dr. David H. Kurtzman, state superintendent of public instruction, said Thursday he believed school teachers should have a limited right to strike. Present law prohibits teachers or any other public employee from staging walkouts, Kurtzman told newsmen following a meeting of the State Board of Education that his position on teacher strikes was his own and that he was not speaking for the administration.

State office hit in audit

HONESDALE — Purchasing and inventory irregularities were uncovered by State Auditor General Grace M. Sloan in an audit of books for the State Highway Department Maintenance District 4-6 in Honesdale.

Mrs. Sloan charged that the maintenance district "consistently and persistently has made many so-called emergency purchases in a manner calculated only to avoid competitive bid requirements."

Mrs. Sloan made the charge in a letter to State Highway Secretary Robert Bartlett. In the letter she also said that "Emergency purchase requests were used to purchase items which then were stored in inventory and for which there was, in fact, no emergency need."

Honesdale's bid procedures were also criticized by Mrs. Sloan as were four other procedures. These four procedures are:

One — The Honesdale highway maintenance office is paying varying prices for the same commodities.
Two — The office may be billed and paying for greater quantities of items than it is receiving.
Three — Inventory controls before July, 1968 were virtually non-existent and since then only rudimentary attempts have been made to maintain effective control.

Four — Records listed installation of a starter on a truck while other records showed the truck was being used during the repair period.
Mrs. Sloan, in her letter to Bartlett, also made eight recommendations which the Highway Department should follow in order to comply with requirements by the Highway Department, executive board and state statute.

Woman inherits $156,937

PORTLAND — A Cherry Valley woman has inherited the $156,937 estate of Mrs. Louise DeJager Burrie of Portland, according to an appraisal of the estate filed in the Northampton County Courthouse.

Mrs. Gustave Larsen of Cherry Valley, a sister, receives the entire estate.

The appraisal was broken down to $129,919.93 in personal property including stock in eight companies plus $21,971 in Pan-Air Credit Union account at the International Airport, Miami, Fla. also, $9,000 valuation of stock in three Dominican Republic companies and $26,000 valuation of 2.4 acres of real estate and a residence in Portland.

The report was made by Northampton County Register of Wills, Eugene R. Hartzell.

Mrs. Burrie, a native of Patterson, N.J., was a resident of Portland for less than a year before her death on May 18, 1967, at the age of 55.

The chapel on the left and adjoining building were the original buildings of the Polytechnic Institute in Gilbert. The first Polk Township public high school started here Sept. 21, 1908. The Polytech opened in 1886 and closed officially in 1921. The buildings still stand today with the addition of the new Salem United Church of Christ now located in the foreground.

Polk Township's first school began in Poly-Tech building

By RAYMOND ANDREWS
KRESGEVILLE — It may be of interest to the older residents of Polk Township to know that the first public high school in the township, known as Polk Township High School, started in the former Polytechnic Institute building in Gilbert on Sept. 21, 1908.

In the 60th year there is much to remember and recollect since that first class.

Ralph H. Feltham was principal and only instructor, the late father of Justin Feltham, today a faculty member at Pocono Mountain School District.

The first roster of students totaled 27. They included: Matilda Dorshimer, Jennie Meitzler, Anna B. Everett, Nettie E. Everett, Verna M. Miller, Edith Kresge, Ruth Trach, Naomi Hinton, Edna Gearhart, Lily M. Wagner, Harriet Longacre, Augusta Herman, Susanna Shupp, Minnie Kroger, Alta Everett, Miles Heiney, Theodore Stroh, Davis Beck, Walter Heiney, Newton Heydt, Amandus Dinstel, Maurice Werson, Charles Gearhart, Norman Gregory, William Schoch, Calvin Feller and Howard Gregory.

In the second month, the enrollment rose to 38 students with Winona Kresge, Hannah Christman, Mabel Heiney, Susan Anglemeyer, Susie Gearhart, Walter Kunkle, Byron Serfass, Joseph Altomose, H. Forest Warner, Paul Anglemeyer and David Shellhammer matriculating.

The term ran seven months with the following salaries for the teachers of the township:

The beginner teacher, with a Provisional Certificate good for one year only, received $40 per month. Teachers with at least three years of experience and holders of a Professional Certificate received $50 per month. This certificate was good for three years and could be renewed with additional study and passing the test for Professional Certificate.

Those teachers who successfully passed the State Board Examinations were granted Permanent Certificate, good for life and received the same salary as the teacher with a Professional Certificate.

The Principal-Teacher of the high school, generally a Normal School graduate such as Mr. Feltham, who graduated from East Stroudsburg Normal School, received $60 per month. There was no tenure for teachers and they were re-elected annually. The faculty at this time consisted of nine teachers.

Elmer Heiney was the secretary of the school board at this time and it was the custom that the teachers had to bring their registers to each school board meeting, have the secretary examine it and upon payment of the monthly salary, in cash, received the payment of their salary in their school register.

At this time, Polk Township was divided into eight school districts: Snyder's, District Eight; Wills, seventh; Roths, sixth; Pleasant Valley, fifth; Gregory's, fourth; Dorshimer's, third; Dotter's Corner, second and Kresgeville, first district.

Now is time to chart future

Planning and zoning and their importance to Monroe County become more visible with each passing day. It is almost impossible to magnify their importance.

It is also quite apparent that much is needed to further the cause of planning in a territory where good planning and zoning is needed as much as any place in the world.

Monroe County is currently in the midst of its greatest growth pattern in history. This growth must be charted and planned in advance if the future is to be as bright and fruitful as we hope.

The days of hodge-podge building and sketchy planning are over. The future calls for clean-cut charting of a course that brings about orderly living and strict means of industrial location.

Preserves property value

Planning preserves the value of property, breeds cleanliness, builds understanding and often is the difference between the growth and deterioration of a locality.

Every portion of Monroe County is facing tremendous problems in planning for the future, mainly because of a late start in planning and zoning. Much of the damage to orderly growth was inflicted many years ago and the various commissions now face the task of overcoming these obstacles on the way to a successful planning campaign.

Right now problems are compounded by the facts that the Monroe County Planning Commission is understaffed and there is a lack of cooperation between area residents and the various planning commissions now at work in the county.

Monroe County is without an executive planning director since the resignation of Leonard Ziolkowski. The absence of a professional executive head of the county commission is currently hurting the struggling planning commissions scattered throughout the county.

These smaller planning units need all the help possible to do their job and this assistance would naturally come from the county planning body. However, the fact that the county organization is understaffed makes it impossible to present necessary aid.

This help is needed now and even the slightest delay could be fatal to a program or programs under study. There is no time for delay. Talk should be kept at a minimum and work should turn into a maximum effort.

Forging ahead

It is heartening to see planning and zoning becoming a reality in Pocono and Chestnuthill townships, for example. It is important for people to take pride in their homes and their home areas. But, successful programs of planning must have everyone's cooperation and all the assistance possible must be put at the fingertips of commission members.

Unselfish attitudes must be adopted on the part of all concerned. At the beginning one must give and take a little in the interest of better living conditions for the future.

Planning and zoning regulations, when adopted, must be enforced with strength, but tempered with wisdom. Changes in zoning shouldn't ever be made just to make a change. Changes should be made for improvement, when differences with original planning are the answer to the problem at hand.

We call for all members of all planning commissions to continue their labors. We ask them to act with an open mind and with the knowledge that unnecessary delay could be fatal to the entire program. We also ask the people to work in conjunction with the various commissions.

Right now is the time to chart the future—not tomorrow.

Politics won't work

WASHINGTON — It is none too soon for leaders of both parties to get accustomed to the idea that, regardless of who becomes president, partisan politics-as-usual simply can't rule the country during the next four years.

It's inadequate; it won't work; it's out. What will be needed at the very minimum is a fully bipartisan cabinet—whether it is a Nixon or a Humphrey cabinet—manned by the highest caliber people meriting public trust.

If the next president is to succeed in dissolving deep differences within the nation, party political leaders must be ready to subordinate their own differences at the highest level of government.

If the president is to achieve something near to a united country, he will have to begin demonstrating a united administration, embodying the best men the two parties can provide.

The case for doing so is compelling.

There are persuasive precedents.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt saw the need to unite the nation to face the out-thrusting peril of Nazi Germany—before we got into the war—he put two able and distinguished Republicans, Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox, into the cabinet at key points.

Doubly useful

If a bipartisan cabinet is useful when the United States confronts a divisive crisis abroad, it can be doubly useful in confronting an even more divisive crisis at home, the intertwined crisis of race, law and order, and the cities.

When President Kennedy realized that his popular majority in 1960 was so thin that, when he took office, he would have to re-win the confidence of nearly half the voters, he appointed one Republican as Secretary of the Treasury and another as Secretary of Defense.

Whether it is Humphrey or Nixon, the winner will almost certainly be a minority president; that is, he will have less than half the popular vote—and perhaps a good deal less.

The problems which lacerate the American people today and which will press in upon the next president will be more complex, more concentrated, more difficult of solution than any we have experienced in war or peace since Civil War years.

The establishment is under serious attack today. It is under attack because many Americans have lost faith in its capacity to deal effectively with the problems which surround us and in its ability to maintain law and order.

The establishment will need to bestir itself as never before. One of the ways it can do it is, after the election, to adjourn some of its political differences and bring into being the best bipartisan cabinet of Republicans and Democrats which can be conceived.

The cabinet needs to be so commandingly superior and so broadly representative of the whole country that a new excitement, a new expectancy of achievement, will fill the air.

The tasks and trials, the uncertainties and disappointments which will face the next president will make anything which tried the spirit of Lincoln seem easy.

There are some so impatient that they are ready to destroy our processes and others are demanding instant solutions which democratic processes can't produce.

We need to channel impatience into a new national zest to do what needs to be done. The country will need to feel the vibrant energy of a new administration. A Cabinet that summons the best in both parties would be an animate beginning.

Don MacLean

Troubles prevail

WASHINGTON — While calmly debating the issues with my Democratic friends, I find they are astonished to learn there are some people who think a change in the nation's leadership might be for the better.

Of course, many of them are astonished to learn much of anything, living as they do insulated from the world by endless welfare schemes on one side and on the other side by a boundless faith that no matter how much pie-in-the-sky is promised, there will always be enough pie to go around.

The way they tell it, there is nothing wrong in the country today that can't be straightened out after Hubert Humphrey's inauguration. They say this while, at the same time, they refuse to admit there really is anything seriously wrong with America today. (How could there be, the Democrats have been in charge for the last eight years, and for 28 of the last 36, haven't they?)

Plenty wrong

Well, my answer to that is: there is plenty wrong with the nation today and I'd be hard-pressed to find anyone to blame it on except the party in power.

The war, for one thing, it's not that I lack confidence in Hubert Humphrey's ability to end it honorably, but hasn't his party had some five years to do this? If Hubert has some magic formula for getting us out of there, surely he would have disclosed it to LBJ a few years ago.

My problem is that I don't know which Hubert Humphrey to believe. The one who was a member of the 1964 Democratic team which told us our boys would never be sent to fight an Asian war? To believe that Humphrey would be to say there isn't any war in Asia! The only recourse is to believe that Hubert now knows how to get us out of the war Lyndon and Hubert said we weren't going to fight. Hmmm.

I might believe Humphrey knows how to end poverty in America, but then there were those who thought the Democrats knew how to end poverty in 1964 and 1960, too. Those millions of Americans whom John Kennedy said went to bed hungry every night must be getting pretty weak by now.

However, I have no wish to compile here a long list of the ills affecting our country. Most of them are familiar enough—crime, the gold drain, inflation, riots, etc. Besides, to confront a Democrat with problems and his past promises to solve them is just about the meanest thing you can do.

But, frankly, it's hard to imagine how a change in the nation's leadership could possibly be for the worse.

School kids are spending so much time on buses this year maybe we should get bus drivers with teaching diplomas.

The new cars will come out in October. And in November they'll probably go back in.

Know how you can tell one new car from another? Easy. Every model is missing a different, vital part.

Stories Behind Words

By William Penfield

BY-THE-BY

In conversation, especially with an old-timer, one may hear the expression "by-the-by" used in introducing a subject secondary to the main one.

The first "by" means passing from one thing to another, as in "day by day."

The second "by" has the same meaning that it does in "by-play" or "by-road." "By-play" is that which is connected with but secondary to the main play.

"By-the-by," therefore, means passing from the main subject to a secondary one.

Driving around Russia

Along The New Roads Of Russia. By Hans Koningsberger. Farrar, Straus, $4.95.

Last year the author drove a jeep-like truck through European Russia, on a 2,000-mile journey from the Finnish border on the north to the borders of Russian and Rumanian, Moldavia on the south.

The basic idea was to see the people and the country—not the politicians, bureaucrats and official tourist traps (he has some nasty things to say about Intourist, the official Russian tourist agency).

This is far from being the sort of free-wheeling journey that John Steinbeck made a few years ago through America, as recorded in his "Travels with Charley." It is more diffuse, more subjective and less penetrating, but it does attempt to find a similar level—the reportage of what goes on with Joe and Ivan.

Koningsberger reports on the sights, sounds, smells and tastes of the life he saw; on the remarks of such traditional sources as cab drivers, waiters, students and farmers; on the food in truck stops and in hotels; on churches, monuments and vacation spots; on prices, shopping and housing, and on the variations among Russian cities such as Yaroslavl, Kiev and Odessa.

There are only a few oblique references to the current ferment among the literary figures and intelligentsia of Russia, and no attempt has been made to evaluate the changes in Russian political stance. It isn't that sort of book. This is an impression of how things are from the viewpoint of an observant traveler wandering through the cities and hinterlands of an enigmatic land.

Pearl Bailey grew with faith

The Raw Pearl. By Pearl Bailey. Harcourt, Brace & World, $5.75.

Onstage or inside this book, Miss Bailey radiates sentimental warmth as distinctive as her vocal style.

More inspirational in tone than strictly biographical in detail, the narrative sums up the pressures, tensions and circumstances that haunt every talent on the way to the top.

"There are people who could really be hurt if I went into too much detail about my past," she says. "We should deliver no pain."

With simple-hearted candor, Miss Bailey weaves her discreet memoirs into a comforter of perhaps unfashionable but persuasive religious faith.

"Between the dressing room and the stage I have what I call my moment with God," she asserts amid other unaffected avowals; it is a terse, good-natured brevity that contrasts strikingly with most contemporary success stories.

The star talked her life at tape-recording sessions, and the printed document was edited by Wendell Shackelford and Hiram Haydn. The tone and feelings are indelibly her own.

William Glover

Story of Ed Sullivan

Always On Sunday: Ed Sullivan, by Michael David Harris. (Meredith, $4.95)

This account is presented as "an inside view" of television's most remarkable phenomenon—the "unstar" who has been a weekly regular since 1948 and may go on forever.

Because of the stiffness of his public personality, Sullivan probably has been the butt of more jokes than anyone else in the business, notably Henry Youngman's report that "In Africa the cannibals adored him. They thought he was some new kind of frozen food."

But of course it is not as a performer that Sullivan has achieved renown. His talent lies first of all in his routine of shows, and in these areas he is supreme.

Although "Always on Sunday" cannot be said positively to be an "authorized" biography, that is certainly the adjective most likely to be attached to it. The author has been the CBS press representative for the Sullivan show since 1959, and if he does not consider his subject perfect at least he thinks he can do very little wrong.

The book traces Sullivan's life from early beginnings in Port Chester, N. Y., where he used to pump the church organ for a singing brother and sister (even then he wasn't a performer), through his early success as a sportswriter and syndicated columnist to his television career.

The story is enlivened by the recollection of such famous Sullivan malapropisms as "Good night and help stamp out TV" ("TB" was intended) and his reference to New Zealand natives as "the fierce Maori tribe from New England." It is also spiced with accounts of his better-known feuds.

Gen. Longstreet absolved

Lee and Longstreet at Gettysburg, by Glenn Tucker (Bobbs Merrill $6).

As long as Civil War buffs meet and exchange views the question of whether Lt. Gen. James Longstreet dragged his feet at the battle of Gettysburg will remain a debatable point.

Tucker, who probably knows as much about the battle as any Civil War historian, absolves Longstreet in this book.

Robert E. Lee was a general who gave overall orders to his commanders and left the tactics to them, much as Dwight Eisenhower pushed the button for the invasion of Normandy and left the details to his lieutenants.

Much criticism of Longstreet developed after the war because he did not attack the Federal army at sunrise on July 2, 1863. Tucker concludes that Lee gave no such order to Longstreet or, if it was given, it was rescinded after a fresh look at the Federal position. Be that as it may, Longstreet was blamed for the Confederate failure at Gettysburg by Southern generals after the war who were attempting to explain away Lee's loss of the battle as well as their own mistakes.

Tucker, a former newspaperman and author of "High Tide At Gettysburg", concludes that Lee must bear a share of the blame for the loss.

Tell it like it is

There is an abhorrent current expression: "Tell it like it is." The words came up out of the members of the checkerboard civil war in which we are now engaged. The precise meaning, depending upon the audience, is: "Slant the facts to fit my bias." What no one wants—north or south, black or white—is blunt truth because it would bruise too many minds.

Nor do I arrogate to myself the judicial role of Pontius Pilate with his hands in a basin of warm water. I think I see truth, but I cannot prove it. At times, I am convinced that, contrary to what I read in the newspapers, this checkerboard civil war is difficult to keep alive. It keeps dying like a damp fuse.

The war requires hate from militant blacks and whites to arouse the people from the orderly coma of daily living. The unpalatable paradox is that there is less loathing from Negroes to whites than there is going the other way. All the national polls, all the interviews show that the black man wants to get along with his white brother, but about 30,000,000 whites, for nebulous reasons, are afraid of blacks.

Cure by education

Philosophically, if one may assume that there is no such thing as a "bad" people, we can cure fear and distrust by education. This leads to a term which no black wants to hear: "Time." Education cannot be injected in a white racist with a needle. Like roast pork, it must be well done or risk sickness. The young black is going to require a lot of education too, but his requirement is the academic type. He needs school, and social responsibility.

There is a pox on both houses. The white night riders of the northern cities who band to buy guns and wait for an invasion by Negroes are, in an ugly way, boy scouts scolding for boys. George Wallace may not be a soul brother to Rap Brown, but they drop the same salt into the nation's sores. Together, they breathe on the dying embers of contention so that more ghettos will flash with fire.

The apologists among the whites—the mayors, governors, authors and editorial writers—are most culpable. They plead guilty for the entire white race and I do not feel guilty. John Hersey sickened me with his book, "The Algiers Hotel Incident," which related the killing of Negroes by Detroit police. He practically apologized for not being able to "tell it like it is" because he isn't black.

The brutal truth is that three young men were murdered in that hotel mainly, one surmises, because they were caught with two white girls. Hersey seems to have written the book with a tape recorder and the best anyone can say of it is that it has one track. No whole police department can be as bad as Hersey made the Detroit department appear to be.

More riots?

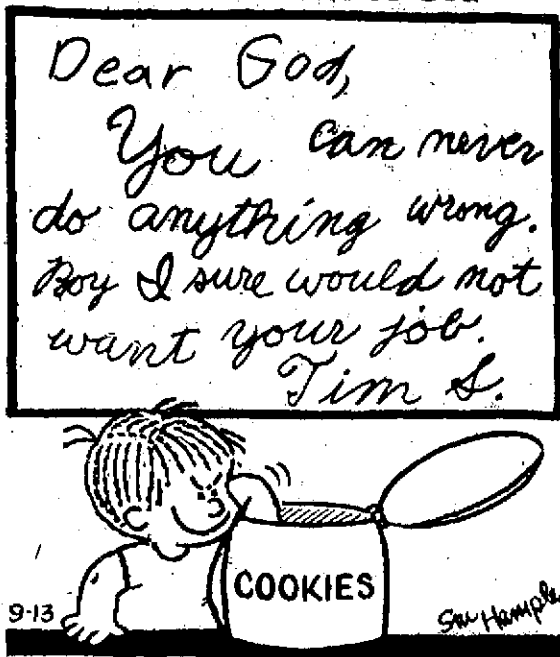

Will we have more riots? Of course. There will be more, but they are worthless without all those big cameras and lights, cops in helmets, national guardsmen with bayonets, looters and such other props as flames and snipers' bullets ripping the night air.

Three hundred years ago the whites bought black slaves from blacks in Africa. Suppose history had been reversed? Suppose the rich blacks of Africa sent boats here and bought white men? Would there be race riots along the Gold Coast of Africa today? And how about that dirty old word: superiority?

Isn't this the nifty-gritty of the whole situation? If there is anything that abrades the black more than lack of justice and bread, it is that he is still regarded as a chucking, shuffling "Yassuh Massa" human being. He wants to be as tall as any white and he is going to have it. The evolution of the Checkerboard Civil War points to equality as the only water which will slake the thirst of the black.

It is not something which can be granted by government fiat, as the Kennedy brothers assumed.

Lutheran editor seminar speaker

MOUNT POCONO — The Lutheran Church of Our Savior, Mt. Pocono, will feature a seminar program on Tuesday at 8 p.m. with the Rev. Omar Stuenkel of St. Louis as the speaker.

Managing Editor of the Lutheran Witness, a monthly magazine of The Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, Rev. Stuenkel will present a relevant, social topic: "What's Right, What's Wrong—New Morality Examined."

According to Rev. Melvin E. Pingel, Pastor of the host church, the guest is an expert in the field of New Morality.

"Are some acts in modern conduct less wrong than before? Do standards really change for a Christian? These are the kinds of questions which Rev. Stuenkel will discuss in the seminar," he said. The seminar is one of a series of six which will be held in the northeastern Pennsylvania area during the week.

The seminar series is sponsored by the Susquehanna Zone of the Mid-Atlantic District of the Lutheran Laymen's League, of which the Mt. Pocono Lutheran parish is a part.

The Lutheran Laymen's League, with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., is an international organization of lay people of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

The purpose of the organization is to provide service assistance to local churches through local laymen's groups and to the church body through national membership.

The League is sponsor of the world-wide "Lutheran Hour" radio broadcast and two other daily broadcasts, the 15-minute "Family Worship Hour" and five-minute "Day by Day With Jesus."

The layman's organization is co-sponsor with The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod of the weekly television program, "This Is The Life."

The lecture and discussion is open to the public. There is no admittance fee, but a voluntary offering will be received. The Seminar program is sustained by such voluntary gifts and is designed to bring specific information to people by churchmen who by experience and preparation are

Service time is changed

PROMISED LAND — Sunday morning worship services at Promised Land Protestant Community Church have been changed from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Sunday School classes have been discontinued.

Speaker during the month of September will be the Rev. Dr. Frederick G. Fulmer, retired Newfoundland Moravian pastor, who is taking the place of the student pastor, Donald Smith, who has returned to his classes after having served the church during the summer months.

Dr. Appel church speaker

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. John Appel, Director of Liberal Arts, East Stroudsburg State College, will be guest speaker at the Bleakleyville Baptist Church, East Stroudsburg, Sunday at 11 a.m.

There will be a special business meeting following church services.

Witnesses arrange assembly

EAST STROUDSBURG — Jehovah's Witnesses who customarily attend meetings at the local Kingdom Hall have completed arrangements to attend the assembly with fifteen other congregations of Pennsylvania Circuit No. 2 this weekend at the National Guard Armory, Phillipsburg, N.J., beginning Friday 6:45 p.m.

"These gatherings," stated the spokesman for the local congregation, Stephen Bortlik, "are arranged to effectively equip each Witness to carry out the command of Christ Jesus stated at Matthew 24:14: 'This good news of the kingdom will be preached in all the inhabited earth for a witness to all nations.'"

"There is no work or message of greater importance in this day than preaching 'this good news' of God's kingdom. Not only is it the hope of humankind, but it will dispel for all time the fear of want and war, fear of death and sickness, and fear of fear itself. (Revelation 21:4). This promised government by God in the power of the king, Christ Jesus, is about to take action against all misuse. Therefore, this is a time of urgency."

Two outstanding features will be the baptism on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. and the public talk on the subject "God's Way Is Love" Sunday.

Esther Saves Her People

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Soon after Esther becomes queen of Persia her cousin Mordecai overhears and reports a plot against the king, saving his life.—Esther 1-2.

When Haman, chief minister and royal favorite, plots the destruction of the Jewish people, Mordecai urges Esther to intervene.—Esther 3-4.

Esther exposes the real reason behind Haman's plot against the Jews and reminds the king how Mordecai once saved his life.—Esther 5-6.

Haman is hanged on the gallows built for Mordecai; Mordecai is honored and the people saved.—Esther 7-8. GOLDEN TEXT: Esther 4:14.

This week's lesson

Book of Esther historical novel

The book of Esther, the Bible's "historical novel," was evidently prepared to explain, from history, the origin and object of the festival of Purim.

Although the entire historical character of the book is open to question, there may have been sufficient evidence of its succession of events to warrant the inclusion of Purim in the Jews' festival calendar.

While the book offers a most remarkable illustration of the overruling providence of God, His name does not appear anywhere in the book, a fact which caused long discussion over whether it should be included in the Bible.

The omission of God's name may have been intentional, however, to avoid irreverence, since the holiday was probably heathen in origin and was more secular than religious in tone.

It is named for its principal character, a Jewish woman who became the queen of Xerxes, king of Persia, and whose name was changed from the Hebrew Hadassah to the Persian Ester. According to its story the festival of Purim celebrates the Jews' deliverance — with the aid of Ester — from Haman's plot to destroy them as a people.

When the book opens, King Ahasuerus (Xerxes) is giving a great feast for all the nobles and princes of his kingdom. It lasted 180 days and its purpose was to consider the conquest of Greece, for which the king had been preparing for four years.

In the midst of their drunken revelry the king called for Queen Vashti in order to show off her magnificent beauty.

This was something a Persian woman would not tolerate and she refused to appear, making the king a laughingstock. To save face he deposed Vashti as his queen.

Two years later — after the battles of Thermopylae and Salamis — the king made Ester his queen, not knowing she was Jewish. Ester, an orphan, had been raised by her cousin Mordecai, who, for reasons unknown, charged her to remain silent regarding her nationality.

Soon after Ester had been made queen, Mordecai overheard a plot against the king's life. He reported it to Ester, who relayed it to the king. The existence of the plot was confirmed and the conspirators were hanged. This seemingly insignificant event was later to prove important.

Xerxes' chief minister was a vain, evil man named Haman. In some way he had won such royal favor that a command was issued ordering all servants and those gathered at the king's gate to bow in obeisance to him. Mordecai refused and this annoyed Haman, who determined to have Mordecai done away with. Ostensibly he sought revenge only on Mordecai, but his plotting actually included a total massacre of the realm's entire Jewish population.

Haman told the king that his Jewish subjects were a threat to him because they adhered to their own laws and customs. He would remove the threat by destroying the people and, out of their confiscated property would give the king 10,000 silver talents (an estimated $19,400,000).

Scriptures now published in over a thousand languages and dialects.

Faith in the Christian way of living . . . in the principles of justice and mercy is even stronger today than ever.

Without a strong Church neither democracy or civilization can survive. If these principles were worth defending then certainly they're worth supporting actively in your Church, which is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship.

Attend Church this Sunday. Never overlook the value of the spiritual nourishment you have gained in Church through all the years past. Never slip into neglect of regular attendance. Today, more than ever, let your religion be an active religion.

Barrett Community Club year opens

CANADENSIS — Beauty is the inalienable right of every woman of every age and every woman can be beautiful, members of the Barrett Community Club were told at their September meeting. A complete beauty program, including a new color film and a face-shape demonstration, was presented by Mrs. Lloyd Geer, program chairman.

Basic beauty routines and makeup techniques which even the busiest woman can enjoy and practice were illustrated in the Avon cosmetics film, "Simply Beautiful". Members also learned why and how face shapes should determine makeup and hair styles. Each member had an opportunity to discover in which of the six most common face-shape categories she belonged. Ways to achieve a more desirable oval symmetry for every face shape were explored and discussed.

Mrs. Donald Gibbins, Mrs. Russell Speicher and Mrs. Perina Davies were high scorers of a beauty quiz and winners of gifts from Avon beauty products. Each club member received a specially prepared beauty booklet.

Before the program, members of the Barrett Junior Woman's Club joined club members at a covered dish supper. Mrs. Herbert Larsen was chairman of the hostess committee, with Mrs. Joe Wile, Mrs. Donald Gibbins, Mrs. Lloyd Geer and Mrs. Janet Brush serving on the committee.

President Mrs. Ernest LaBar, presided at the business meeting and reported to members on the success of the recent Barrett Carnival. The club's share of the carnival receipts will be used for its community welfare projects. New Carnival committee members appointed were Mrs. John Styk and Mrs. Dorothy Wagner.

Mrs. Russell Speicher reported progress on the annual Fire Prevention Poster Contest sponsored by the Club. The contest is open to all elementary children in the Barrett Elementary Center and Pocono Central Catholic schools. Posters will be judged and displayed at the Barrett Fire Company's Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Weiss to mark golden anniversary

STROUDSBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Weiss are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 14, at their home Bonnie View off route 611 outside of Stroudsburg.

In addition to friends, the celebration will include their three children, ten grandchildren and four great grandchildren paying tribute to the patriarch and matriarch of the Weiss clan.

From the time of their marriage on Sept. 10, 1918 in Elkton, Md., until their retirement in 1964, The Weiss's were associated with the American House, Eighth and Main Sts. in Stroudsburg which was owned even before that by Mr. Weiss's parents. Mrs. Weiss is the former Ruth Mount.

During those 46 years, they were in close contact with both the community and the traveling public.

They have three children, William Weiss, Stroud Township, who has three children; Boyd Weiss of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who has five children; and Elizabeth Alice, wife of Lt. Commander Washburn Wear of Key West Fla., who has two children. There are also four great grandchildren.

Mr. Weiss in his semi-retirement also is in close touch with other people's children, since he drives for the head start program in the summer and a school bus run in the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Hosier (Arnold Studio)

Miss Janice Fisher bride at St. John's

STROUDSBURG — The marriage of Miss Janice K. Fisher to Robert N. Hosier was held on Saturday, Sept. 7 at 2 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Fisher of Stroudsburg RD. 5; her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Hosier of 430 Quentin Road, Stroudsburg.

Rev. William C. Leopold officiated at the ceremony before the flower decorated altar. Richard Lakey was organist. The ends of the pews were marked by sheaves of white pompons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white crepe with a ruffled collar dipping low in back and sleeves of Venice lace. The train was also trimmed in matching lace. A Venice lace cluster formed her headpiece trimmed with crystal loops holding her veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of phaeonopsis orchids and stephanotis and wore pearl earrings, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Byron H. Weaver of Stroudsburg, sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. She wore a dress of avocado green chiffon over crepe with a satin Nehru collar and back panel. Flowers in shades of gold were worn in her hair and formed her bouquet.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sue Buck, Miss Helen Kutish, Mrs. John Imbt and Mrs. Howard Allegar. They wore similar ensembles. Miss Suellen Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Weaver, and niece of the bride, wore a long dress in lighter shade of green similar to the bridesmaids and carried a basket of pompons in shades of gold and also wore them in her hair.

Jack Kishpugh, of 1101 Kiner Ave., Lebanon, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Clubwomen of district to meet

SCRANTON — The Fall meeting of the Northeast District, Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs will be held Thursday, Sept. 26 at the Jermyn Motor Inn, Scranton. Representatives of the 113 federated clubs from 11 counties including Monroe, Wayne and Northampton will be present.

Mrs. John M. Spatz, recently elected president of the federation, and Mrs. Donald Starr, junior director will be among the speakers.

Registration will begin at 9 with the business meeting at 10. Luncheon will be held at 12:30, highlighting a panel on "The Challenge of Crime."

WCTU meets on Friday

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet Friday afternoon at 2 at the home of Rev. and Mrs. B.H. Hostetter, 40 West Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

A report of the world WCTU convention held in May in Japan will be given.

Ushers were James Maugeri, Donald Baylor, John Imbt and Byron Weaver.

A reception for 200 guests was held at Vacation Valley with the tables decorated with yellow pompons and white cornations.

Leaving for their wedding trip to Miami Beach, the bride wore an ice blue sheer cotton tailored dress with gray patent accessories.

They will make their home in University Park. The bride, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School attended East Stroudsburg State College and was employed by Detrick's Vending Inc. Her husband, also a graduate of Stroudsburg High School, was graduated with a B.S. degree from The Pennsylvania State University and is working on his master's degree at Penn State.

A rehearsal party was given by the bridegroom's parents at Water Gap Country Club.

The bride was honored at two nuptial showers, one given by her attendants, the other by Mrs. Glenn Detrick.

Recreation for youth club theme

BARRETT — The Barrett Junior Woman's Club will concentrate on recreational facilities for the young people of the area, it was decided at the September meeting held at the Barrett YMCA.

Members voted to start the program with a $500 donation to the Barrett Branch of the YMCA and to give a donation to support Cub Pack 89.

The coming Halloween parade was discussed and the club will donate toward prizes.

A membership drive will be held during October and November with special programs during those two months. Mrs. Maureen Besecker is chairman of the drive. All women between the ages of 18 and 40 will be welcomed. Meetings are held the first Thursday of each month at 8:30 at the YMCA.

Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. Karl Harvey.

FAMILY DINNER

An old-time dish that's interesting to make.

STUFFED WHOLE CABBAGE

1 green cabbage (1½ pounds)

½ pound bulk pork sausage

½ cups cooked rice

1 tablespoon finely grated onion, pulp and juice

¼ cup minced parsley

Remove any open outside leaves from cabbage. Cover cabbage with boiling water; boil 15 minutes; drain well, top side down. Mix together remaining ingredients. Place cabbage, core side down, on a double thickness of cheese cloth that's big enough to cover it completely. Open out all the leaves from the center without pulling them off. Put a teaspoonful of sausage stuffing in center and fold over a few leaves; plaster a little stuffing over next leaves and fold up; repeat process until all leaves except bottom ones have stuffing spread over them. Bring up corners of cheese cloth; tie tightly together, patting cabbage into compact shape. Boil in lightly salted water to cover for 1 hour. Drain well. Open cheese cloth; turn plate so cabbage is core side up. Remove cheese cloth. Cut in wedges. Makes 6 servings.

Mrs. J. Rodney Harnish (Arnold Studio)

Nancy May Reaser is Sunday bride

STROUDSBURG — Miss Nancy May Reaser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reaser of 727 Bryant St., Stroudsburg was married on Sunday, Sept. 8, at 3 p.m. to J. Rodney Harnish, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Harnish of Refton.

Rev. William Leopold performed the ceremony in St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of peau de sole in an A-line with a bodice of Alencon lace and long lace sleeves. The neckline was scalloped lace which also edged the shoulder-length train. Her veil of French illusion was held by a petal headpiece. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Carnathan of Lampeter was matron of honor. She wore an empire gown of mint green satin covered with lace with a satin pleat down the front. A green petal print headpiece held her brief veil.

Martha Cornwall of Stroudsburg was maid of honor and Rosaria Reppert of Kutztown was bridesmaid. They wore similar gowns of yellow lace and satin and matching headpieces. Cindy Lou Reaser, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They all carried cascade bouquets of daisies.

Mrs. Virginia Leopold sang, "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Lester Carnathan of Lampeter was best man. Ushers were Roy Stammacher of Strasburg, Paul Herr of Willow St., and Robert Dillman of Akron.

A reception was held at the Stroud Twp. Municipal Building at 4 p.m.

Leaving for their wedding trip to Lake George, N.Y., the bride wore a light blue two-piece suit with a matching coat.

On their return they will live in Refton.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of Riverview High School, Sarasota, Fla., and of the Allentown Hospital School of Nursing. She will be employed in the operating room at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lancaster.

Her husband, a graduate of Lampeter-Strasburg High School in 1965 will graduate from Lehigh Barber School, Allentown, in September.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Do you ever feel, watching the news on television, that you're seeing a re-run? The same picket lines outside schools, the same garbage strikes, the same clashes between police and demonstrators, the same political speeches, the same war in Vietnam.

Of course, the front pages of newspapers often look as if they'd been re-plated, too, but at least inside there are people with names and faces and acting as individuals, news to which you can relate. It's pretty hard to relate to anything in the mass, to generalizations and to stock phrases.

Of course, I'll have to admit that the social pages these days look, at first glance, as if they might be a re-run of June with so many September weddings and of course, babies named. But not if you're reading them with loving care, against a background of local knowledge of the families and personalities involved. These are new brides and new babies.

Eastburg student council candidates give pitch

EAST STROUDSBURG — Humphrey, Nixon and Wallace should have dropped in to the East Stroudsburg High School gymnasium Thursday when the three candidates for President of the Student Council gave clear, cogent and concise reasons for their running for the top spot in the Student Council.

The three national candidates would have learned that campaigning can be effective if speeches are held down to a bare minimum.

And also anything but dull considering that one of the candidates for President of the student council is Carol Michaels of 31 Stemple St., East Stroudsburg, a good looking blonde in orange jacket and blouse who when asked if a girl has a chance to be elected replied, "Definitely!"

Carol, a senior, and vice-president of the student council in her Junior year, built her platform around more dances, pep rallies, better homecomings, and a more important liaison between the student body and the administration.

After her speech, loyal partisans paraded around a long banner which read, "This has been a paid political announcement. Elect Carol!"

Gary Jacobs of 149 Ananook St., East Stroudsburg, got down to the heart of the matter when he said schools are made for students, not for the administration or parents. He urged more pep rallies and a heavier accent on this year's summer dances at the high school.

Dan Blewitt of 145 Prospect St., East Stroudsburg, said, if elected, he would institute new programs and ideas to be carried out by the council. He added that the main goal of the council was to represent the students.

The gymnasium was packed with 1,050 students from grade seven to 12. Applause for the three candidates was about equal in volume and enthusiasm.

The high school students will vote Monday for the candidate of their choice.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you accepted a suggestion from a well-meaning reader who came up with a safe way to smoke in bed. The woman said if a person trains himself to hold the cigaret between the middle and fourth fingers, the cigaret cannot drop out of his hand if he should fall asleep. "He will be awakened when the cigaret burns down to his fingers," she added.

As Chairman of the Emergency Rescue and First Aid Committee of the New York Firemen's Association, I hope you will retract that statement and tell your readers there is no safe way to smoke in bed.

Bed-smokers run two risks. One is asphyxiation, the other is fire. The so-called "safe" way might awaken the smoker before he becomes roasted alive, but it would not prevent him from becoming asphyxiated by the smoldering of a wool blanket or a foam rubber mattress.

Please take the word of a fireman who has carried out too many corpses.

John Tierney wins award from police

STROUDSBURG — An honorable service medal of the International Association of Auxiliary Police was awarded today to a local reserve police officer, John Tierney, Stroudsburg R.D. 2 who completed six years of volunteer service in his city recently.

The award pays tribute to the many hours of volunteer service given to the community by this officer in the war against crime.

The use of reserve police enables local police to release its officers to combat crime while the reserve members handle traffic assignments, administrative affairs, parades and sporting events.

In emergencies the auxiliary police can supplement the departments strength at the scene of public disorder or disaster.

The International Association of Auxiliary Police is a worldwide association of volunteers in law enforcement representing the interests of this special group through mutual training, insurance of members and fraternal activities.

Wonderful world on school bus

It's more than just a bus trip

By PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter
MOUNTAINHOME — What's yellow and black, goes 43 miles in one hour and 45 minutes and picks up and lets off 39 occupants who are taking one of the biggest steps in their lives?

The kindergarten bus run at the Barrett Elementary School in the Pocono Mountain School district.

Wednesday, Mrs. Susan Dogan, kindergarten teacher at Barrett's morning session came out to bus number four and consoled one of her boy charges who was manfully trying to hold back a watershed of tears.

"No more tears," Mrs. Dogan said to Michael Perri of Cresco. Lips pouting, Mike looked up from the floor of the bus at Mrs. Dogan and a whole new world of going to school and riding back and forth on that bright yellow bus.

The bus driver, Reeve Price, closed the door and the bus began its afternoon run of letting off morning session kindergarten pupils and picking up pupils for the afternoon session.

One of the first steps was Price's Drive, Mountainhome, where a young mother waited with a smile and a closed umbrella for her young offspring.

Threatening clouds had monopolized most of the morning but as the bus began its afternoon run at 11:45 a.m. the clouds began to scamper offstage for a hint of clear afternoon skies.

A public school bus is one of the finest vehicles for demonstrating a basic lesson in democracy. The children, come from all walks of life and start getting to know each other on the bus.

Some of their homes might be more modest than others but on the bus they all reach the same level.

Some are shy and loners. Others are gregarious, talkative, an actor here and there, a born female charmer, the brooder, the potential class wit, the hell raiser—all riding with each other towards the first step in the moving staircase of education.

Price has been driving a school bus in Barrett for more than 30 years. "All you have to do is to listen to what they have to say, and you'll have a good story," he remarks as the bus glides out past goldenrod in near full bloom in fields along Fishtown Road in Paradise Township.

"And then there's another story in the high school boys and girls," he said turning around the bus after he let off a little girl who ran up to her mother and showed her her paper with the gold star on it. "That's when some of the boys first start taking notice that there's something different between a boy and a girl."

At another stop, Price has to wait until the boy disappears into his home. "By law, a driver has to wait for the parent to pick up the child at the side of the road before he can start the bus," Price said.

And now the little boy and girl talk begins as Price comes back past the goldenrod and trees whose dark green leaves are tipped here and there with red and yellow sprinkles of premature autumn.

The girl has a wad of Kleenex in her fist. "I'll throw it out the window," she says to the boy who rushes over to her seat and answers emphatically, "You do and the cops will get you."

"Now down over the hill to my house," the little blonde girl says. "You're letting me off, aren't you?" she asks Price.

"Yeah," Price answers with a smile. "I'll let you out."

The bus comes to a stop sign and another boy asks Price why he's stopping.

"Oh we can't pull out there until we've made sure there's no cars coming," Price says.

Sharon Nations in a striped green, red and brown dress and Suzanne Sopko, all in blue, begin to argue with Bobby Williams. "Now you can't sit here," Sharon tells Bobby. "This is our seat and our window."

Suzanne agrees and then goes into a short dissertation on her pet cat. "My cat brings in the chipmunks and puts them on the patio," she tells the rest of the boys and girls.

On Route 390 in Mountainhome Price stops for another youngster and a middle aged couple look up at the bus. "Can I go back to school?" the woman asks Price.

"Why sure," Price answers. "You're never too old to learn."

The bus passes Barrett Elementary School, goes up around Dutch Hill Road, curves around the back of Skytop Lodge and comes back down into Canadensis on Route 390. The girls and boys are beginning to form groups but there's still a loner here and a straggler there.

Between Under Seese Hill Road and Lower Seese Hill Road the bus bounces at a merry clip. In the back seat of the bus four boys and two girls bounce up and down like bobbins in a silk thread factory.

At exactly 1:29 p.m., the bus opens its door in front of the Barrett Elementary School.

Mrs. Norman Hitt, kindergarten teacher for the afternoon session, is there to greet them.

Mrs. Hitt is a no nonsense teacher. She gets all the boys and girls in line and they begin to march around the front of the school, past the American flag and up the steps into their bright new fun world of school.

Chief assessor recommends aerial photos in reevaluation

STROUDSBURG — At Thursday's meeting of the Monroe County Commissioners, William Featherman, the county's chief assessor, reported a recommendation that aerial photographs be utilized for the re-evaluation study of land reassessment.

Featherman provided the commissioners with samples of photographs which were taken by Vernon Graphics, Inc.

The photographs were studied by the Tax Study Committee at its meeting on Monday and the members made the recommendation for the commissioners' study.

The Tax Study Committee, headed by Warren (Mag) Loney, Stroudsburg councilman, is in the process of studying re-evaluation of the entire county's land.

It was further suggested to the commissioners that the fall was the best time of year to take the aerial photographs, since the tree leaves will be down and better reconnaissance will be permitted.

The commissioners agreed to study the possibility of using the aerial photos. If the commissioners decide in favor of using them for the re-evaluation process, bids will likely be advertised to companies which specialize in

Voting aide recovering

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Lovell Banks of Stroudsburg, chief voting registrar for Monroe County is recovering from injuries resulting when she fell at work, Wednesday.

Mrs. Banks, a veteran employee in the county commissioners office is in charge of the voter registration program for the county.

While at work on Wednesday, she said she just backed up, stumbled and then fell.

"Oh, I'll live through it," Mrs. Banks said. "The doctor said there will be some pain for the next few days and it will take about six weeks for healing."

Mrs. Banks was released from the Monroe County General Hospital after treatment for two broken ribs.

that type of work.

The commissioners received a letter from the Stroudsburg Borough Council asking them to study the feasibility of implementing a county waste disposal incinerator. A letter on the same subject from the East Stroudsburg Council was read by the commissioners on Monday.

It was decided that the commissioners will look into the matter over the next five years. Chairman Elwood Hintz said, "They are still going to have to have a place to dump some of the things they pick up. They can't burn refrigerators and things like that."

Hintz raised the possibility of conferring with Bangor about an incinerator.

In other business taken up by the commissioners, it was decided that a study would be made of a letter from Howard Yarus, Allentown attorney representing the Bible Fellowship Church, new owners of the Pinebrook Foundation Camp, stating that the Fellowship feels it is entitled to an exemption on real estate taxation.

The last day for real estate taxation appeals was Sept. 1, and Yarus' letter was dated Sept. 11.

The commissioners passed on a reminder to the public that there are only three days remaining for voters who wish to register. Registration in the courthouse will be possible today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., and on Monday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

At next Monday's meeting, an announcement will be made concerning the appointment of one of the commissioners to the Greater Lehigh Hospital and Health Planning Council.

J.A. Detrick, Buck Hill Falls, dies at age 75

BUCK HILL FALLS — Jacob A. Detrick, 75, of Buck Hill Falls died Thursday at home.

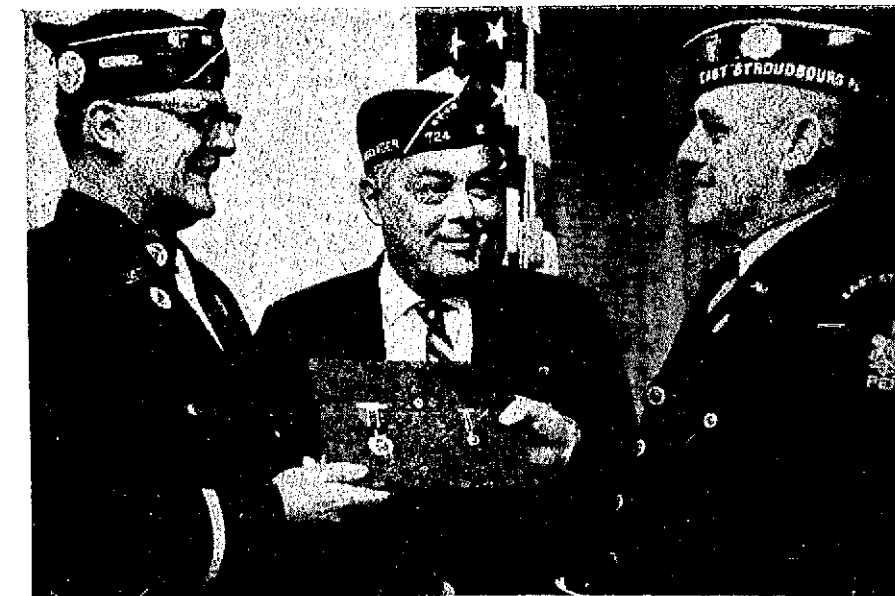

He was born in Stroudsburg, a son of the late George and Bertha Halterman Detrick.

He was a retired policeman in Scranton. He was a veteran of World War I, a member of the Canadensis Methodist Church and a member of E. B. Jermyn Lodge F. O. P. in Scranton, the Eagles, The VFW and the American Legion.

Legion commander emphasizes need for monthly meetings

EAST STROUDSBURG — James D. Shafer, newly elected commander of the American Legion George N. Kemp Post No. 346, East Stroudsburg Thursday night called for a re-establishment of a monthly form of communication between the post and its members.

During installation meeting in the post home, Shafer emphasized the need for a return to monthly meetings so the members might respond with more interest in post activities.

Other officers installed Thursday besides Shafer were Vance Megargel of Mount Pocono, first vice commander; George Scoble of East Stroudsburg second vice commander; James Coppenhaver of East Stroudsburg finance officer; Richard Rugg, of Stroudsburg R.D. 3, adjutant and Jack Muschock, of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2, chaplain.

Also, Floyd Storm of East Stroudsburg and Ernest LaBar of Stroudsburg, sergeant-at-arms and Walter Mader, service officer.

Installing officer was Richard Davey of Wind Gap, 30th District American Legion Commander. Davey was assisted by Glen Hagerl, of Stroudsburg, 30th District sergeant-at-arms.

Venison to be on prison menu

STROUDSBURG — Inmates of Monroe County Jail should have little to complain about for the next few weeks, at least not about their prison menu.

Inmates on Thursday were cleaning and preparing seven deer for venison to be included in their diet until the meat, more than 300 pounds dressed, runs out.

The meat was donated to the county jail through the office of the State Game Commission. The animals were killed by a farmer in the Long Pond area because of extensive crop damage on his vegetable operation.

Ernest Taylor, game protector of lower Monroe County said the game was killed outside his district but explained that in some cases the deer are cause for a great amount of crop damage.

Reported kills from crop damage and road killed deer from motor vehicles become the property of the game commission which is donated to any charitable county institution.

In the past, game meat has been donated to the county home.

Taylor said that in his district the average crop damage kill has been by five people who report killing a deer or two, but this is restricted to the farming country in the West End.

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Tessie A. Heller, 77, of 512 King St., Stroudsburg died Thursday in Pleasant Valley Manor, Stroudsburg.

She was born in Weatherly, Pa., a daughter of the late William and Catherine Shook Adams. She lived in Stroudsburg all her life.

She was a member of the Stroudsburg United Methodist Church. She was the widow of Arthur L. Heller.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ida C. Henry of Stroudsburg and Mrs. Bessie

Frailey of Stroudsburg R.D. 2; one son, Stanley H. Heller of Stroudsburg; three grandchildren; two great grandchildren and one brother, Charles Adams of Nazareth R.D. 3.

Funeral services will be held on Monday at 2 p.m. from the William H. Clark Funeral Home with the Rev. David G. High officiating.

Burial will be in the Stroudsburg Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday after 7 p.m.

NFL set for 49th year

Unitas remains question mark

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

"You pull off something like that and there doesn't need to be anything else, ever." Earl Morrall talking to Earl Morrall in "Paper Lion."

The "something like that" pulled off by Earl Morrall in 1960 was one of the most spine-tingling moments in National Football League history—and one of the most disheartening games ever for the Baltimore Colts.

That's why the irony of the opening of the NFL's 49th season this weekend is that the same Earl Morrall may be the starting quarterback for the Colts.

Morrall's sensational feat was a 65-yard touchdown pass on the final play of the game to Jim Gibbons which gave the Detroit Lions a 20-15 victory over the Colts in 1960—after Johnny Unitas' TD pass to Lenny Moore had put the Colts ahead 15-13 with just 10 seconds left to play.

It was a disaster for the Colts, who were two-time defending NFL champs at the time and in first place with a 6-3 record. But after suffering that loss, they were beaten in their final two games on the West Coast and blew the Western Division title to Green Bay.

Morrall, who retold the story of that game to George Plimpton in his book "Paper Lion," remembered how the Baltimore crowd was stunned by the sudden defeat. "It was like a bomb in that place. Just sudden-like, you could hear the echoes if you shouted, I swear."

And now, eight years later, many of those same fans may find themselves rooting for Morrall, who was picked up by the Colts recently from the New York Giants. Morrall was supposed to be a backup man to Unitas but now Unitas is a question mark with his sore elbow acting up again. Morrall may have to start in the Colts' opener against the San Francisco Forty Niners Sunday.

Unitas, who aggravated the old injury in last week's exhibition against Dallas, said, "I'd have to say it hurts more than it ever has. The soreness is in the same place as always but it is puffed up and black and blue. I couldn't knock a dead cat off the doorstep."

Coach Don Shula said that besides reading Morrall to start, he'll have halfback Tom Matte—who filled in during the 1965 emergency when Unitas and Gary Cuozzo were hurt—start practicing at the QB spot as a backup man.

San Francisco has lost 11 straight games to Baltimore since 1962 but if Unitas can't play, the Forty-Niners will have a better shot at the Colts—who went 11-4-2 last year.

There will be seven other opening games this weekend, starting with the Atlanta at Minnesota game Saturday night. The five other games Sunday are Cleveland at New Orleans, Detroit at Dallas, New York at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia at Green Bay and Washington at Chicago. The weekend winds up Monday night with Los Angeles playing at St. Louis in a nationally televised game.

The most significant aspect about the new season is that Vince Lombardi, who piloted the Packers to five NFL crowns in the last seven years and to two Super Bowl victories, has kicked himself upstairs as a full-time general manager.

Phil Bengtson takes over as coach and finds himself in an impossible situation. Even if he wins it all, he'll only be credited for winning with Lombardi's team—and if he loses, he'll get all the blame.

The Packers, though, shouldn't have too much trouble in their opener against Philadelphia.

Dallas, which has lost the last two NFL title games to the Packers, is favored to beat Detroit while Los Angeles, figured to battle Baltimore for the Coastal Division crown again, should have a tough struggle with St. Louis.

Green Bay looks no different

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers, minus the man that made them champions but still sporting that old, Vince Lombardi look, open defense for the fourth successive year Sunday of their National Football League championship.

Lombardi, who lifted the Packers from the NFL's poorest team in 1958, to championships in 1961, 1962, 1965, 1966 and 1967, has retired from his field job and now acts as the team's fulltime general manager.

Sunday, when the Packers take on the ailing Philadelphia Eagles, he'll be watching from the press box as Phil Bengtson, the Packers' new coach, sends the players—most of them leftovers from the Lombardi era—into action.

Despite the fact that the Packers dropped two of their six pre-season games (by a total margin of four points), Green Bay looked no different than the team that won the 1967 Super Bowl game by overwhelming the Oakland Raiders 33-12.

When the first units were intact, the Packers moved almost at will on offense and stopped opposing clubs on defense. Bengtson, however, used the first five exhibitions to experiment and it wasn't until the final game—last Saturday against Cleveland—that he let the regulars play most of the time.

The result was a smashing 31-9 victory engineered by quarterback Bart Starr and a defense that didn't allow the Browns into the end zone.

Bengtson then declared his team ready.

"We could have had a little more consistency," Bengtson said. "But we were pleased with the consistency we developed." Bengtson also said he wasn't taking the Eagles lightly—especially considering that "they beat a team—and rather decisively as far as the score is concerned—that beat us."

The Eagles trimmed New York 21-7 in their final pre-season game.

SUPER IN THE SULKY - By Alan Mauer

Jets, Boozer debut against Kansas City

By STEVE SMILANICH
UPI Sports Writer

The New York Jets, and explosive Emerson Boozer in particular, can't be blamed for being wary of visiting the happy hunting grounds of the Kansas City Chiefs for their 1968 debut this weekend.

The Jets invade Kansas City's Municipal Stadium Sunday for a key American Football League game against the Chiefs. The two teams tangle on the same turf of which the Jets title hopes were sent into a nosedive and Boozer's bid for a scoring record were buried a year ago.

The Chiefs walloped the Jets 42-18 last Nov. 5 in Kansas City and Boozer, who at the time had 13 touchdowns and was on his way to a possible pro scoring record, suffered a knee injury which put him out of action for the remainder of the season.

For all practical purposes the Jets' title hopes were buried that gloomy day in KC.

The Jets-Chiefs outing is one of three on the weekend slate. Houston, a 26-21 loser to Kansas City Monday night, attempts to get into the win column Saturday night against the Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl.

In other Sunday games the Oakland Raiders open defense of their AFL crown by facing a weak Buffalo team in the upstate New York city and Cincinnati, pro football's newest team, opens its home league schedule by hosting the Denver Broncos.

San Diego and Boston, both victorious in opening games a week ago, are idle this weekend. Kansas City holds a string of three straight victories over the Jets, who haven't beaten the Chiefs since Joe Namath's rookie year in the pro ranks in 1965.

Coach Hank Stram's Chiefs are favored by seven in Sunday's clash.

Boozer, whose return to form has been slowed by a brief stint in the military, is expected to start at halfback for the Jets. Coach Weeb Ewbank's club compiled a 3-2 exhibition record but the Jets have failed to get any consistency into their offense.

Little Mike Garrett, who gained 198 yards against the Jets in the game at Kansas City a year ago, is a doubtful participant Sunday.

Houston, with Pete Beathard beginning his first full season with the Eastern championship Oilers, is a two-touchdown favorite over Miami. Beathard enjoyed the best night of his pro career Monday against Kansas City despite the loss. The Oiler quarterback hit 23 of 48 passes for a pair of touchdowns and rolled up 385 yards in total offense.

Bob Griese, the former Purdue all-America beginning his second year of pro ball, will direct the Dolphins attack while rookie Larry Csonka, the ex-Syracuse all-America will lead the Miami running assault.

Oakland opens its bid for a second consecutive title with only three changes from the starting Super Bowl lineup of last January. Speedster Warren Wells will be at split end, Carlton Oats replaced injured Tom Keating at defensive tackle and Dave Grayson will be at free safety.

The Cincinnati-Denver battle is rated a tossup. Dewey Warren, the former Tennessee back who did a good job in the Bengals' opener against San Diego, will start at quarterback while John McCormick, attempting a comeback, will direct Denver's attack in place of injured Steve Tensi.

Tennessee, Georgia kick off 1968 college grid season

By JACK WILKINSON
UPI Sports Writer

Tennessee Coach Doug Dickey figures he is facing the toughest schedule the Vols ever undertook. But right now, he's got Georgia on his mind.

Those two Southeastern Conference rivals get an early jump on their other league foes when they collide Saturday before an expected packed house in Knoxville and a nationwide television audience to help kick off the 1968 college football season.

Tennessee, ranked second in the nation at the close of last season, is a one-touchdown favorite over the Bulldogs, who will be expected to pass more than before against a Vol team that likely will be more defense-minded than in recent years.

Only a handful of major games are on this week's slate. Most of the potential powerhouses—such as defending national champion Southern California, Purdue, Florida, Texas, Oklahoma and Notre Dame (the latter two opening up against each other)—wait until next week.

Saturday's slim schedule also features a game between Nebraska, given a good shot at dethroning Oklahoma in the Big Eight, and the Wyoming Cowboys, those rages of the Rockies. The Cornhuskers are one-touchdown picks in the Lincoln duel. North Carolina State is one point over Wake Forest and Houston rates three TD's over Tulane in another pair of games.

Richard Pickens

Dennis Hughes

Among the others, Colorado State University is at New Mexico, Texas-El Paso hosts Santa Barbara, New Mexico State is at Utah State, Buffalo travels to Iowa State, Miami of Ohio is at Xavier, Kent State visits Dayton and Parsons is at East Carolina. Small college champion San Diego State opens its 10-game slate (nine of the games are at home), hosting Texas-Arlington, which was third in the final standings last year.

Tennessee's potent attack which carried it to a 9-1 regular season mark and an Orange Bowl date last year suffered heavily through graduation. Gone are quarterback Dewey Warren, halfbacks Charlie Fulton and Walter Chadwick and All-America center Bob Johnson.

On top of that, flanker Richmond Flowers is bypassing the 1968 season so he can concentrate on track for the Olympics. Flowers, however, plans to return to football in 1969.

Dickey isn't as bad off as he sounds, though. He's got Bubba Wyche, a seasoned quarterback who stepped in for Warren to lead Tennessee to victories over Alabama and Georgia Tech last season, and fullback Richard Pickens, second only to Chadwick in rushing.

Georgia needs to find a solid quarterback to make its attack go and be a contender for national honors. While Coach Vince Dooley expects to throw more, defense will play a large role as usual for the Bulldogs, who led the Southeastern Conference in defense last year. Returning are two of the best stop-gappers in the business—tackle Bill Stanfill and safetyman Jake Scott.

Halfback Kent Lawrence is the lone returning backfield starter.

The two teams have met 12 times and it's almost a tossup—65-1, in favor of Tennessee.

Ellis, Patterson meet personally for first time

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Jimmy Ellis, World Boxing association heavyweight champion, and former champ Floyd Patterson, who clash in a 15-round fight for the title Saturday, met personally for the first time Thursday.

Ellis and Patterson shook hands and said nice things about each other at a news conference at Stockholm's Råsunda Soccer Stadium, where the fight will be staged.

Ellis and Patterson did not speak to each other but told newsmen that they liked each other.

"There are no hard feelings between us," Ellis said. "I like Floyd as a good man and a good fighter."

"But in the ring he is just an opponent I have to beat. I must do my job. This is my living," he said.

"I'm in the best shape ever and prepared for a tough fight which can go the full distance. Floyd is dangerous but I'm sure I'll defend my title."

Patterson said he expected a tough fight adding, "But I'm confident I'll take the title for the third time."

$10.5 million guessing game

BOSTON (UPI)—Officials of the American League's newest franchises, Kansas City and Seattle, will play a $10.5 million guessing game Oct. 15 when the expansion clubs are stocked in a massive player draft to be staged in a Boston hotel ballroom.

The mechanics of the draft, under careful study for months by American League officials, call for the selection of 60 players, 30 by each of the two new clubs, at a cost of $175,000 each.

That means the new entries will be paying $5.25 million for their playing talent and redistribution of that tidy sum will pay each of the ten existing American League teams $1.05 million for the loss of six players apiece.

The draft, to be conducted by American League president Joe Cronin with the aid of a computer, officially got underway today—the deadline for submission to league headquarters of all the players in the major and minor league organizations of each A.L. team.

The next public step in the process will be the coin flip to decide which team, Seattle or Kansas City, gets first choice from the players made available to them by their future rivals.

The coin flip winner gets first choice while the loser gets to pick second and third. After that, it's an alternating basis through six rounds and the names of players not chosen in the expansion draft will remain a secret known only to the computer and the clubs involved.

Bob Holbrook, Cronin's assistant in charge of public relations and, in this instance, draft mechanics, explained the selections in some detail, noting that there is no particular order in which existing teams can be tapped by the expansion clubs.

"All the players go on the list and each team will be allowed to protect or freeze 15 major or minor leaguers. After a player is selected from a team, say from the Red Sox, Boston then will be permitted to protect three additional players.

"But the expansions teams can take anybody from the eligible list so the final standings don't have any bearing on it. And no team can lose more than one player in each round so that after six rounds, each club will have given up six players.

Both Ellis, 28, and Patterson, 33, said chilly weather on fight day won't bother them.

"We just have to warm up a bit more before entering the ring," they said.

rainy conditions.

However, the weatherman forecasted clear weather on Saturday.

Harold Valan of New York will be the sole referee. He has handled three world champion fights, including the light heavyweight bout between Jose Torres and Dick Tiger in 1967. The Ellis-Patterson bout will be his first heavyweight title fight.

Ellis' trainer, Angelo Dundee, and Patterson's trainer, Ernie Fowler, discussed the rules to be used with the referee.

The mandatory eight count will be used, the referee will not stop the fight after a three knockdowns, but will continue the counting after the bell. The scoring will be from one to four points for the winner of the round and nothing for the loser. An even round means zero-zero.

Swedish promoter Edwin Ahlqvist predicted some 30,000 fans at the stadium.

In addition, millions will be able to watch on television transmitted via satellite to the U.S., Canada, Mexico, West Germany, Austria and Yugoslavia. England and some other nations will have the fight recorded.

Ellis, a father of six, will pickup 40 per cent of the income or a guaranty of $125,000 dollars, while Patterson gets only 20 per cent of the take. He has no guaranty sum.

Ellis, a former sparring mate to Cassius Clay, has a record of 28-5 compared to Patterson's 46-6-1.

Jaycees cite Woman's club helpful wives hears O'Brien

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountains Jaycees conducted a Wives Appreciation night on Monday, in the Pen N Sword. The wives of the Jaycees were recognized for their outstanding support of the organizations' activities.

Mrs. Betty Clarke, a Bell Telephone representative, spoke to the group on "Effective Telephone Communications." This illustrated talk pointed out the significance of good telephone manners.

Guests of the Jaycees included Marie Conklin, the 1969 Junior Miss of the Pocono Mountains, and Dr. and Mrs. John Creamer.

Mike Storr, Jaycee president, presided at the meeting.

HONESDALE — Peter O'Brien of Mount Pocono and Democratic candidate for state representative in the 139th District, Tuesday spoke to a regional meeting of the Pennsylvania Federation of Democratic Women.

O'Brien called for immediate state action to meet the critical shortage of nurses in the state.

He said it was difficult for him to understand why his opponent, Russell Eshbach, could take no action to prevent the elimination of the only state-sponsored scholarship program, specifically designed for nurses but voted for a $5,000 a year pay increase for members of Public Utilities Commission.

He concluded saying that if elected he would propose immediate legislation.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 9-13

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Some complexities indicated, but you can solve them through the Aries' innate know-how and competence in emergencies. Put your mind above small differences; concentrate on essentials only.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Two admonitions for this day: Don't scatter energies and DO avoid haste. Strive for quality, not quantity, in all endeavors.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your Mercury, still beneficent, puts you in a better position than many others today. You can accomplish a great deal, but be patient with those who may not be as quickthinking or as capable as yourself.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some advancement indicated, but your cooperation needed — especially in the field of personal relationships. Some persons may be very temperamental now, others afflicted with a spirit of pessimism and defeatism. Try to cope happily with all.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — As with Taurus, it will be important that you avoid haste and impulsiveness on Friday. You can rack up a more than satisfactory score, but easy does it!

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Although your planetary influences are fairly favorable, much is left up to you. HOW you organize and systemize, and how WELL you use your talents will be big factors in this day's success pattern.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Don't anticipate trouble or the failure of your endeavors, but DO be cautious in certain areas. Be careful to avoid errors and think carefully before expressing opinions.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Investigate whatever stimulates your interest, but don't "go overboard" on a new proposition without looking beneath the surface.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Mixed influences. All activities will have to be well organized before you can proceed efficiently. Emphasize composure, delicacy of approach, good judgement.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You will do well to follow your own schedule and not become involved in affairs which do not essentially concern you. This is no time to go off on tangents.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — As with many others now, you will have to be constantly on guard to avoid errors or miscalculations through haste, impulsiveness or guesswork.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A time for reviewing reports, data, and methods used in your employment. You can work very efficiently — and profitably — if you prepare carefully.

YOU BORN TODAY are determined, skillful, conservative, progressive, energetic; have both executive and artistic talents. You can overcome obstacles by taking them as part of life, though you may inwardly resent or fear them. But your dislike of them never takes the form of wavering or doubting. You find answers, seek solutions — and succeed! You attract people, usually have many friends of both sexes; are sociable. You make talented doctors, nurses, painters, and writers. Birthdate of: John J. Pershing, Commander-in-Chief, World War I; Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., ex-Gov. of Puerto Rico; Sherwood Anderson, author, playwright.

Erma Bombeck

Almost impossible

Editor's Note—This is the third in a 10-part series excerpted from the book "At Wit's End," by Erma Bombeck (C) 1965, 1966, 1967 by Newsday, Inc. Published by Doubleday & Company, Inc. Distributed by Newsday Specials.

I recently became very interested in the story of a London housewife who was at odds with English automobile manufacturers over the low position of steering wheels for expectant mothers who have to drive a car.

The automobile manufacturers retaliated with "Why should pregnant women have to drive at all?" which is the type of answer you'd expect from a bachelor engineer whose mommy told him she got him with green stamps!

Actually, pregnant women don't have to drive cars. They could ride motorcycles sidesaddle, strap their feet to two skateboards, or raise their umbrellas and think Mary Poppins, but the fact remains automobiles are an intricate part of a woman's life and to give them up for six months or so is like going back to nesting in a rocking chair for nine months.

Victim of experience
I know of what I speak. Before American cars were equipped with tiltaway steering wheels, I had a traumatic experience that I have not been able to relate to more than 30 or 40 thousand of my most intimate friends.

I was going into my 11th month of pregnancy (the doctor and I disagreed on this point) and had gone to the store to purchase a half gallon of ice cream and a loaf of bread. The car seat was back as far as it would go, which created a small problem. My feet no longer reached the brake pedal or the accelerator, so I had to crouch. When I crouched, my vision was impaired and I had to hang my head out of the no-draft. When I did this, I hit things.

No matter. I got to the store and parked the car, nose in, and made my exit without incident. However, on my return I noticed I had been hemmed in on both sides by parked cars.

I eased open the door a crack and proceeded to stuff myself into the car, stomach first. However, I became wedged between the arm rest of the door and the steering wheel. I could not go forward or backward. Now, try that on for laughs. My stomach was stuck and my ice cream was melting.

People began to stand around in curious mobs. Quickly I pulled backward, releasing me from the front seat. To save face, I nonchalantly opened the back door of the car and slid in like a guest.

Next problem
Now, to get to the front seat. Bent from the waist, I faced the rear of the car and tried rolling over the top of the front seat. The ashtray tore a hole in my bread wrapper.

Humiliated, I plopped down on the seat to think. What do you do when you go the supermarket manager and ask him to announce over his microphone that the black station wagon bearing license plates—is blocking a stomach?

I licked the sticky ice cream off my fingers and decided to give it one more try. I'd back into the front seat. I was doing fine until another fat part of me made contact with the horn. A small child pointed and said, "Mommy, is that woman sitting on her horn going to have a baby?"

Tears welled in my eyes. "Don't be ridiculous, kid! I'm carrying it for a dear friend."

NEW YORK — The Mike Todd TV special, no doubt strangely, did not include his attempt to go bankrupt not long before his one big hit movie (80 Days) which was circumvented by multi-millionaire lawyer Arnold Grant, who represented a client claiming Todd owed something minuscule such as $16.50, and proceeded to prove Todd had assets enough NOT to go legally bust.
